

MY SON HAS AUTISM.

He's not being naughty. He has a neurological disorder.

→ If he could communicate better, he would say:

Please be patient with me as I learn to function in the community. I mean no harm. I may learn differently and not act the same way as you, but I'm doing the best that I can.

Autism affects the way that a person perceives the world around them. Someone with autism may appear as though they are ignoring you, have poor social skills, have limited eye contact, exhibit repetitive behaviors, have difficulty adjusting to change in routine, laugh or appear upset for no apparent reason.
